

DESIGN MATTERS! CAMP

A camp for high school students interested in architecture and design

July 9-14, 2017

How many times did you walk in/out of a building today, last week, in your lifetime? Which of them made you stop and say WOW?

Have you ever tried to be both INSIDE and OUTSIDE at the same time?

Have you thought about how buildings affect PEOPLE'S BEHAVIOR? How they wouldn't be anything without people inside them?

Have you ever wanted to MAKE the things in your imagination come to life?

DesignMatters! Camp will investigate all things spatial, tactile, and relational. We will discuss how you move from one space to another, across transitions and thresholds. And how space itself can become inside out and upside down. In doing so, we will challenge ourselves to imagine an exciting future for our built environment.

Field trips, faculty lectures and films will profoundly expand your understanding of design at multiple scales and how good design can have a positive impact on both society and the environment.

And that's all by the end of Monday!!
