

A.L. LOTTS ELEMENTARY

Welcome Mr. Mosley

Mr. Reggie Mosley has temporarily joined our administrative team in Mrs. Greene's absence. He was born in Birmingham, Alabama and studied to become a teacher at Knoxville College. He later completed other education degree programs at the University of Tennessee and Lincoln Memorial University. Mr. Mosley taught mainly 4th and 5th grades for 15 years in several schools in Knox County. He also worked for 19 years in administration in various Knox County Schools before retiring last school year. He is married with two adult children. We are glad to have him as part of the "A. L. Lotts family".

POETRY CONTEST

R.B. Morris, the first Poet Laureate of Knoxville, is working with students to create a poetic grid of Knoxville. As many of you know, the center of Knoxville is at latitude 35, thus the name of this location poetry project. Students are encouraged to think about places in Knoxville that are important or significant to them and to write a poem about that location. We will be accepting entries until March 9, 2018. All Knox County Schools students are invited to participate and the flyer below has more details. Some students will be able to share their poetry at an event at the Emporium, and we are going to organize submissions into a collection to share. This is an entirely optional opportunity, but I wanted to make sure that the information was getting to anyone who might have an interest. <https://www.smore.com/7c6h8>

Morning Coffees Q&A

Morning Coffees Q&A is a wonderful event that allows parents an opportunity to hear about the instructional practices occurring in the classroom to grow strong readers. We will have a variety of people available to answer questions that you may have. It will begin at 7:50 and end at 8:30. We will have coffee and treats for everyone to enjoy.

Staff in attendance:

Janet Sexton, Reading Supervisor

Tracy Frady, Instructional Coach

Laura Burgard, GT Coach

Haley Bryan, Primary GT Coach
