SPRING BRINGS ABOUT NEW THINGS!

Isn't it amazing to see the blossoming trees and flowers at the beginning of spring? It reminds us that in order to have new things, we must be willing to accept change. One of the best things about education is we get to see minds and hearts blossoming everyday. Spring in Preschool isn't about the season, it's about the learning that comes about each day in our classrooms. Not only are the children learning, but we, the adult educators, are learning and blossoming as well. During our Read Across America Week, we presented a new reading challenge and our students were reading over 10-15 books a week! The reading challenge boosted our students' vocabulary and their thrill for reading. As educators, we learned that our school rises to challenges and blossoms in the process. As long as we are challenging our minds to live better and be better, we will always live in the season of Spring.

COOL PARENTING HACKS

To help keep your child's mind active during car rides, use a canvas shoe caddy to store fun activities. Stuff the caddy with small books, games, gadgets, flashcards, or even small snacks. They'll love it!

PARENT QUOTE OF THE MONTH:

"He wanted to read all night long. I barely got anything done around the house, but it was all worth it!"
