WHO'S TAKING CARE OF YOU?

Did you know that 80% of the average person's thoughts are negative. Not only are they negative, but they are repetitive. Meaning they echo in our minds throughout the day. Those negative thoughts create stress, anxiety and put us in a survival mode to always be ready to attack or defend ourselves. Though there are times when we must defend ourselves, it shouldn't be everyday and in every situation. This type of thinking literally breaks down the body causing physical illness as well as mental illness. So as parents, teachers, supporters – Who's taking care of you? When you take control and become conscious of your negative thoughts you will have the ability to switch them off and replace them with positive thoughts throughout your day. Doing for others and smiling more actually create positive chemicals in your brain that generate joy and give you more energy than any outside chemicals. When you are able to take care of your thoughts, then the words you say will bring life to the people around you – especially to your children. Your external words are their internal words. Your external energy is their internal energy. When you take care of you, miraculously, you take care of them!
