Who's the Greatest?

Each morning during our morning song, we ask the students, "Who's the greatest?" It didn't take long before they responded "I'm am!" Our students are the greatest and that's something we can't let them forget. As they begin their educational journey, we know there will be ups and downs. One thing we want to instill in each of our students is his/her self worth. What they believe and say about themselves will come into existence. Words are powerful. Words can be used to tear down or they can be used to build up. Frederick Douglass said, "It is easier to build strong children than to repair broken men." Let's work together to build strong children. Let the words we express to our children and around our children be positive and uplifting. They will internalize the vibe and begin expressing it in their own lives. So when we ask "Who's the greatest?", they will truly believe the words when they respond, "I am!"
