Disparities in Educational Outcomes Task Force
Community Forum II

Presenting Draft Recommendations
April 28, 2016
The Disparities in Educational Outcomes Task Force, a group of business, community and faith-based stakeholders, was convened to recommend strategies to address disproportions in academic achievement and discipline outcomes in the Knox County Schools that might be correlated with income, race, language, and/or disability.
The Process

- DEO Task Force convened in November 2014 to review data
  - Including, but not limited to: school and district demographics; academic and discipline outcomes for all students; law enforcement reports; KCS employee demographics and recruitment efforts; and best practices from other districts

- What followed:
  - A number of forums to collect stakeholder perspectives; review of thousands of comments from students, parents, teachers, administrators, and community members; and meetings with published agendas, notes, presentations, and stakeholder comments

- What is coming:
  - A report and set of recommendations to combat the issues
What We Heard: Need for Training

Training matters—affects how a teacher views the intention of a child.

Cultural competency training.

More classroom management training for teachers.

Dig into individual school data to detect patterns by grade level or teacher to determine if additional, specific training or intervention is needed.
What We Heard: Need for Support

- Make PBIS an intentional course where we can teach expectations and enforce policy.
- PBIS in every school!
- Need more community schools in this district and opportunities for tutoring, computer skills, classes for parents, etc.
- Provide supports for struggling students—behavior liaisons, and partnerships with Helen Ross McNabb for social, emotional, and physical needs.
- Mentoring programs: programs that pair UT college students with KCS students.
What We Heard: Personnel Needs

Counselors and social workers for students and families (community schools) to connect resources in Knox County with families. Mental illness support and coping strategies for families, too.

We need to be able to attract, train, and support more teachers and administrators of various races... especially African-American and Hispanic-American.

Direct support for mental health, language, and social skills.

More social workers for emotional health. Students don’t know how to handle emotions. We need to help them learn.

More African-American male teachers and mentors in schools.
What We Heard: Need to Revise Discipline

“Suspending repeatedly does not work... need more options for punishment.”

“Inconsistent discipline practices (high school cell phone policies). Policies need to be specific, not vague.”

“Restorative justice (other kids to teach kids) — not expel (keep learning). Use natural consequences.”

“Take out ‘disorderly conduct’ and define it. Taking off a hat is not an expellable offense.”
What We Heard: Law Enforcement Needs

"Discipline, not arrest for minor offenses; we should result to citations."

"Less cops. Children should never be arrested at school."

"Less cops."

"School to prison pipeline."

"Police brutality problem."

"Stop arresting kids at school."

"Children should never be arrested at school."
What We Heard: Need to Connect

- "Every student needs a caring adult at home and school. Provide love, encouragement, support, coaching, and discipline. Set expectations."
- "Need culturally responsive teaching."
- "Students are taken out of arts (PE, Humanities) for ELA/Math intervention. Pulling students from what they love does not allow them to express. Art is a perfect place for multiculturalism."
- "Relevancy of education to culture and heritage is important. Curriculum should be more relevant to students."
- "When voice messages are sent, everything is in English."
What We Heard: Need to Engage

Today’s student is more informed—need to get them to take ownership and have them be proactive rather than pushing things on them.

It is important to include parents and children in decisions about the policies.

Create a rights/responsibilities class constitution and involve students in the process.
